Complaint

TomTom North America, Inc.

Defendant

Plaintiffs by attorneys alleges upon information and belief, except for allegations pertaining to plaintiff, which are based on personal knowledge:

1. TomTom North America, Inc. (“defendant”) manufactures, distributes, markets, labels and sells portable navigation devices to consumers for use in automobiles, all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) and personal movement from third-party retailers, including brick-and-mortar stores and online, and directly from defendant’s website (the “Products”).

2. The Product models include: GO, ONE, XL, VIA, START, XXL and EASE.

3. The Products have a basic feature set of a color screen within a black frame that attaches to a flat surface to facilitate use, primarily while driving.

4. The models are distinguished by additional features such as:

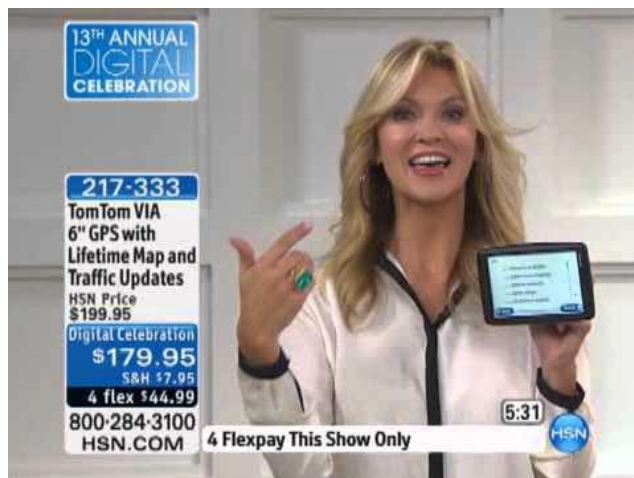

- Active magnetic mount
- Advanced Lane Guidance
- Compatible with Siri and Google Now™
- Lifetime TomTom Traffic via Smartphone
- MyDrive Cloud App
- Smartphone Messages

- Hands-free calling
- Updates via Wi-Fi
- Lifetime Maps (World)

5. The image below is a standard TomTom device, the XL Classic.

6. All of the Products are marketed and advertised as coming with Lifetime Maps or Lifetime Maps and Traffic, point-of-sale marketing, retailers' catalogues, websites and television sales, uniformly and pervasively promotes the Lifetime Maps and/or Traffic Updates.

7. The product boxes – the last thing the consumers see before they purchase the Products – have continuously highlighted the addition of Lifetime Traffic and/or Maps through statements such as:

- LIFETIME TRAFFIC & MAPS EDITION

- LIFETIME MAPS OF US CAN & MEX
- LIFETIME MAPS

8. In today's digital world, consumers feel overwhelmed by the rapid pace at which new electronic devices are released.

9. From the latest smartphone, to notebook computers to digital cameras, consumers have long asked, "Why do I need to get a new [device] when the one I have still works?"

10. Moreover, given that the prices of these items have increased at levels above the consumer price index and stalled wage growth, there is a clear incentive to pay a bit a premium price for a device, but with the comfort of knowing your next device is a long way off.

11. Defendant capitalizes on this consumer sentiment by essentially saying, "Buy our devices now (at their high price), and you won't have to get another one for a long time because we will provide updated maps so that the functionality does not decrease.”

12. The represented Lifetime Map and Traffic Updates are an inducement to consumers who would not have paid as much for the navigation devices in the first instance, given they might otherwise expect to require a replacement product after a few years.

13. Despite the representations of Lifetime Maps & Traffic, consumers are misled that the “lifetime” referred to in the marketing of the devices is false, deceptive and misleading.

14. In its January 2018 announcement terminating lifetime map updates, defendant explained this was caused by technological limitations.¹:

Every day, at TomTom, we work very hard to bring you the best navigation experience ever. A big part of this work is to continuously improve the quality of the maps, services, and software that your navigation device runs on.

It has become clear that some of our older generation navigation devices do not have sufficient resources to run the newest maps and software available.

HOW IT WILL AFFECT YOUR DEVICE (DEVICES WITH LIFETIME MAPS ARE NOT AFFECTED)

For affected devices (see the full list of affected devices),

- You will not be able to renew maps or services.
- If you have an active subscription to map updates or TomTom Services, you will continue receiving those until the subscription runs out.
- You will not receive new software updates.
- Your device will continue to function as it does now, but your map will become out-of-date and as such navigation will be less accurate.

15. The actual warranty terms for the lifetime map traffic updates are found on defendant's website²:

17. At no point prior to the time of sale did defendant, acting through its privies, make the terms of the lifetime maps and traffic updates available to consumers.

18. The warranties that the Products would receive lifetime map and traffic updates were unambiguous and did not disclaim the provision of this feature in any conspicuous or prominent fashion.

19. Defendant’s provision of lifetime maps and traffic updates permitted defendant to arbitrarily and in a self-serving fashion establish the lifetime of the device:

WHAT DOES “LIFETIME” MEAN?

Lifetime is the useful life of the device, which means the period of time that TomTom continues to support your device with software updates, services, content or accessories. A device will have reached the end of its life when none of these are available any more. The useful life of the smartphone app means the period of time that TomTom continues to support the app with updates.

20. The termination of the lifetime maps was claimed as necessary because:

³ https://www.tomtom.com/en_us/obsolete-products/#car

It has become clear that some of our older generation navigation devices do not have sufficient resources to run the newest maps and software available.

21. Defendant's explanation is contrary to the capabilities of the devices and to basic fair dealing.

22. First, whether or not the Products have sufficient resources to continue with updates is entirely dependent upon the prior updates distributed by defendant to consumers.

23. Second, many, most or all of the affected devices have the capability to accept an SD card, which can apply updated map and traffic data to the devices, without utilizing any memory of the devices themselves. load map and traffic updates to an SD card.

24. Third, defendant's probable explanation for "sunsetting" the relevant devices is to promote the sale of new devices under the guise of a "Replacement Offer":

REPLACEMENT OFFER

This may be the perfect opportunity to discover what our new range of navigation products has to offer you.

25. By diminishing and/or eliminating the utility of affected devices, defendant has been able to reverse and/or stem its decline in direct to consumer sales.⁴

26. Further, defendant's reliance on its sole discretion as to when it decides to cease providing updates disregards that consumers were buying hardware (the physical devices) and software (lifetime maps), such that its revocation of part of the transaction constitutes a taking under false pretenses and unconscionable commercial conduct.

27. Instead of defendant offering refunds to consumers in the amount of the present-value of the lifetime maps services, they were offered "rebates" on new devices.

⁴ TomTom ditches map updates for some sat-navs, <https://www.bbc.com/news/42859546>, Jan. 9, 2018 (according to analyst Chris Jones at Canalys, "TomTom's sales of devices direct to customers have recently been in "severe decline".)

28. Defendant's claims of lifetime maps and traffic updates is rendered illusory given the undisclosed caveats that the "lifetime" referred to as not merely the lifetime of the device, but the amount of time defendant chooses to support the device.

29. All of the limitations described herein were not communicated to consumers prior to, or at, the point of sale.

30. No reasonable consumers understand or interpret "lifetime" to mean sooner than the actual lifetime of the device as measured by its ability to function with reasonable memory capacity, especially when the devices accept memory cards with the updates on them.

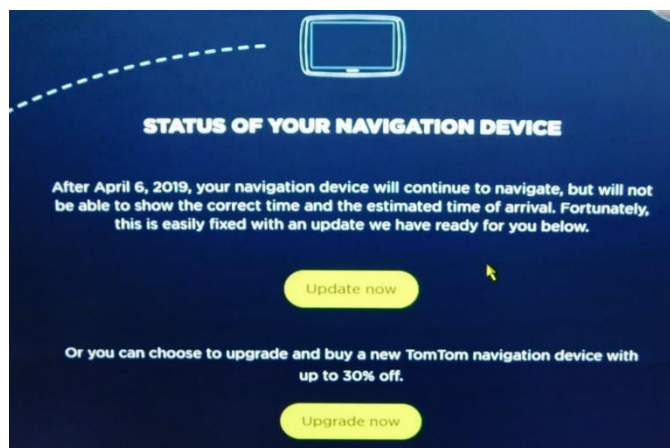

31. When consumers have experienced standard and non-exceptional glitches with their devices, defendant's customer support does not adequately engage in good-faith repair efforts, but is instead incentivized to sell new devices and/or map and traffic subscriptions.

32. Defendant unfairly charges consumers who attempt warranty claims to determine whether or not a warranted loss or condition has occurred.

33. The Products were also detrimentally affected by the transition of the Coordinated Universal Time (UTC) clock used by the satellite navigation system which reached the limit for its 10-bit "week number" (WN) counter and reverted to 0000000000.⁵

34. While defendant offered "updates" to its stable of devices, they were contingent on installing updates to the devices.

⁵<https://arstechnica.com/information-technology/2019/04/gps-rollover-event-on-april-6-could-have-some-side-effects/>

35. Defendant's actions constitute unconscionable commercial practices, deception, fraud, false pretenses, misrepresentation, and/or the knowing concealment, suppression, or omission of material facts with the intent that others rely on such concealment, suppression, or omission in connection with the sale and use of Defendant's Products.

36. The Products contain other representations which are misleading and deceptive.

37. As a result of the false and misleading labeling, the Products are sold at premium prices – no less than $149.99 and upwards of $589.99, excluding tax – compared to other similar products represented in a non-misleading way.

Jurisdiction and Venue

38. Jurisdiction is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2).

39. Upon information and belief, the aggregate amount in controversy is more than $5,000,000.00, exclusive of interests and costs.

40. This court has personal jurisdiction over defendant because it conducts and transacts business, contracts to supply and supplies goods within New York.

41. Venue is proper because plaintiff and many class members reside in this District and defendant does business in this District and State.

42. A substantial part of events and omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in this District.

Parties

43. Plaintiff is a citizen of Westchester County, New York.

44. John and Jane Doe plaintiffs are citizens of the other 49 states who have been affected by the conduct alleged here but their true identities are not fully known.

45. John and Jane Doe may be used in the complaint to refer to representatives of subclasses of the various states and at such time their identities will be disclosed.

46. The allegations as related to laws of other states where no named plaintiff has been disclosed serves as a placeholder upon joinder or amendment.

47. Plaintiffs purchased the Products based upon the representations on the packaging.

48. Plaintiff's Products remain functional yet are denied traffic and map updates, due to defendant's failures to promptly perform standard troubleshooting and repairs, caused by inherent defective qualities of the Products.

49. Defendant is a California corporation with a principal place of business in Lebanon, New Hampshire.

50. During the class period, plaintiffs purchased one or more Products for personal use, consumption or application with the representations described herein, for no less than the price indicated, supra, excluding tax, within their districts and/or states.

51. Plaintiff paid this premium because prior to purchase, plaintiff saw and relied on the misleading representations.

52. Plaintiff would consider purchasing the Products again if there were assurances that the Products' representations were no longer misleading.

Class Allegations

53. The classes will consist of all consumers in the following states: all, New York, Idaho, Ohio, Massachusetts, Kentucky, California, who purchased any Products containing the actionable representations during the statutes of limitation.

54. A class action is superior to other methods for fair and efficient adjudication.

55. The class is so numerous that joinder of all members, even if permitted, is impracticable, as there are likely hundreds of thousands of members.

56. Common questions of law or fact predominate and include whether the representations were likely to deceive reasonable consumers and if plaintiff(s) and class members are entitled to damages.

57. Plaintiff's claims and the basis for relief are typical to other members because all were subjected to the same representations.

58. Plaintiff(s) is/are an adequate representative because his/her/their interests do not conflict with other members.

59. No individual inquiry is necessary since the focus is only on defendant's practices and the class is definable and ascertainable.

60. Individual actions would risk inconsistent results, be repetitive and are impractical to justify, as the claims are modest.

61. Plaintiff(s) counsel is competent and experienced in complex class action litigation and intends to adequately and fairly protect class members' interests.

62. Plaintiff(s) seeks class-wide injunctive relief because the practices continue.
